HAND WASHING

For a long time, washing cars by hand was the most traditional method used. Advancements in technology and the ever-growing need for efficiency have caused some car owners to adopt the latest crop of automated washing at a service.

Automated washes not only damage your car, but are ineffective at cleaning it.

In spite of the belief that washing cars by hand is slow, its advantages lead it to be the preferred method for serious car owners.

CarDetail can and will help explain some of the strengths and the real benefits of washing by hand.
